

WHAT DID YOU SAY?

At the start of the year, we launched a readership survey to garner your thoughts on the journal – the content, the design, and the direction. Discover some of the main results...

CONTENT

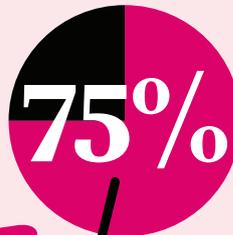

81% <sup>i</sup>/<sub>i</sub>

think Community Practitioner contains valuable information to help them do their job

Nearly 3/4

say that the journal has improved their practice knowledge and understanding

75% have used tips and advice given in the journal at work

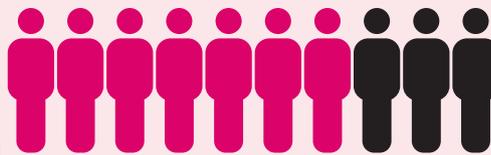

9 out of 10

find the articles are clearly written and easy to understand

91% 😊/<sub>😊</sub>

are happy with the number of Unite-CPHYA updates

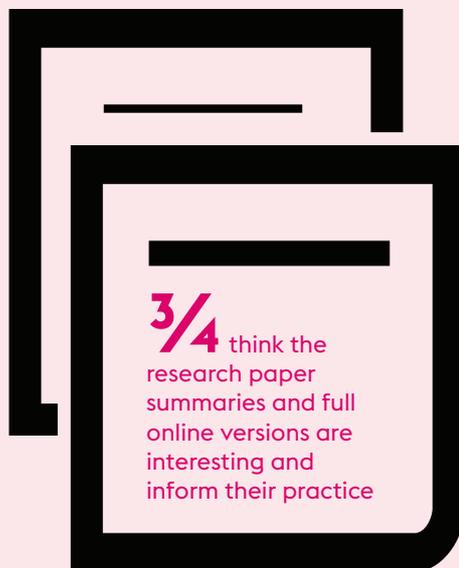

7 out of 10

would like to see more research-related articles

94% 👍/<sub>👍</sub>

agree it is important to them to read a research paper in Community Practitioner

3/4 think the research paper summaries and full online versions are interesting and inform their practice

DESIGN

More than 3/4

believe the number of images in the journal is about right

65%

find the journal's design refresh attractive

THANKS AND CONGRATS!

Thank you to everyone who took the time to respond and congratulations to Gemma McNally and Fiona Corcoran, who each won a £50 M&S voucher in the survey's prize draw.

FURTHER THOUGHTS?

If you didn't have a moment to complete the survey, but would still like your voice to be heard, or you have an article suggestion, send an email to aviva@communitypractitioner.co.uk

408 members completed the survey between 14 January and 28 February 2019